PROFILE

Jeremy Steiger is an industry-proven commercial real estate strategist with three decades of hands-on experience guiding landlords, tenants, investors and users through complex transactions and long-term portfolio decisions. He blends the depth of a veteran broker with the perspective of a trusted advisor, integrating best-in-class property and asset management for clients who demand focused operational discipline. His career spans more than 1,000 completed transactions across office, medical and light-industrial sectors, supported by a reputation for clarity, calm execution and consistently successful outcomes.

For the first 20 years of his career, Jeremy built a high-volume brokerage practice representing both landlords and tenants in the Cleveland market. Over the last decade, he and his talented team have expanded his platform to include property and asset management, allowing clients to benefit from an integrated, transparent, common-sense approach to real estate. Today, he is known not only as a dealmaker, but as a partner who helps clients navigate risk, optimize performance and make confident, well-informed decisions.

Jeremy is a founding partner of Lee Cleveland and Lee Cleveland Property Management, founder of Lee Cleveland Select Management and architect/developer of the proprietary LCSM Connect™ platform that enables LCSM to proactively manage building operations and communicate effectively with tenants, clients, vendors and partners. Together, these entities form a powerful commercial real estate platform within the Lee & Associates network. His team works with local and national companies, institutional owners, private investors, medical groups and nonprofit organizations, delivering tailored solutions grounded in market intelligence, operational insight and long-standing relationships.

Jeremy earned his BS in Marketing and Management from Yeshiva University's Syms School of Business and holds both an Ohio Real Estate Sales License (1997) and Brokers License (2007). A lifelong learner, he regularly pursues continuing education in real estate, leadership and areas of personal interest. He is an active participant in both industry and Jewish community organizations.

Jeremy, a Cleveland native, was lucky enough to marry his high school sweetheart, Liza. They make their home in University Heights, where their four grown children remain the most frequent and favorite topic of conversation.
